

Bror

Bror

Bror

Property
Age	Adult
Birthplace	Urukai
Occupation	Mine Foreman
Recruitable	No
Species	Uruk (Two-Armed)
Dick Size	Unknown
Relationship	NPC / Quest Giver
Role	N/A

“The Heart of the Stone has woken up, and it is screaming in agony.”

Appearance

A sturdy, muscular Uruk wearing heavy, dust-covered work gear suited for the rocky terrain of the Stone Loom Mountains. Unlike Katari and the majority of his species, Bror possesses only two arms, a biological trait that marks him as a lower-caste laborer within Uruk society.

Personality

Bror is pragmatic, cautious, and deeply protective of his workers. While the rest of Urukai's society focuses heavily on spiritual meditation and the "Wind," Bror is grounded in the harsh, physical reality of the mines. He is initially skeptical of your ability to help but recognizes desperation when he sees it.

Story

"When a violent psychic shockwave hits the Whispering Plains, you track the disturbance to the Stone Loom Mountains. There, you encounter Bror, the foreman of the local mining operation. He warns you that a biological-mineral entity known as the 'Heart of the Stone' has awakened and is thrashing in agony, threatening to collapse the tunnels and kill his miners."

Spicy Scenes

- Currently None: Based on the current script files and flowchart logic, Bror exists strictly as a narrative NPC to advance the Prahama questline. He does not currently have any explicit sexual scenes, encounters, or CGs implemented in the game.

How to romance him?

Bror is not a romanceable character in the current build of the game.

Your interactions with him are entirely limited to the main quest dialogue at the entrance of the Stone Loom Mines. You cannot establish a dominant, submissive, or romantic dynamic with him, as his only mechanical function is to warn you about the Shard Crawler boss fight and unlock the inner chambers of the mine.
